

Foxhound

Traditionally, the English Foxhound has always been a pack hound and with many hunts developing their own readily identified 'type'. The annual Festival of Hunting at Peterborough sees the spectacle of exhibits from many packs throughout country in competition.

Only in the recent past have we seen Foxhounds in the show ring in the UK although they have been established in the show rings of the USA and Australia for much longer.

What health screening is currently relevant?

Kennel Club Accredited Breeders must use, or are strongly recommended to use, the following screening schemes and/or advice for sires and dams:

There are not currently any veterinary screening schemes or DNA tests for disease relevant to this breed under the Assured Breeder Scheme, however you should still ask breeders and refer to breed clubs about health issues in the breed.
