The majority of reports in the dog press suggest Crufts 2014 was an outstanding success and if wider media comment is a good barometer of public opinion then the reputation of the pedigree dog is now much improved. Our thanks go to the Crufts Committee and the many staff from the Kennel Club who work throughout the year to ensure Crufts remains the best dog show in the world. We should also thank the many volunteers who make the show run smoothly, from those who man Discover Dogs to the many stewards and supporters who work through four days to help our exhibitors and visitors enjoy their time at Crufts and of course our sponsors of the show. The show could not be this successful without the support of the NEC and the news that the complex is for sale is generally considered good news for the ongoing development of the site as a major venue for exhibitions and events.

With visitor numbers climbing, an increased coverage on the Channel Four network and very positive comments in the wider media, the critics of the Kennel Club’s public relations strategy over the past few years must surely now realise that these improvements are a direct result of the sustained focus on pedigree dog health and responsible breeding. Responding to a savage, ill-informed attack on the reputation of the pedigree dog of the type we suffered from the BBC, more than five years ago, takes time to produce an increased credibility and momentum. In such circumstances, there is no quick solution when faced with a concerted negative campaign, especially when it attracts the interest of parliament.

Nevertheless, thanks to the diligent work of many dog people, those who were critical of the pedigree dog breeder at that time, are coming to the revelation that there are many types of dog breeder and those who are most likely to pay attention to health and welfare are dog breeders who register dogs with the Kennel Club. As a result, and at long last, political pressure is refocusing on the irresponsible commercial breeder and the irresponsible dog owner. There is still much to be done.
to secure the reputational future of the pedigree dog in society but at least now the Kennel Club is being consulted, listened to and, increasingly, our advice taken seriously.

Over the past few years, Crufts has helped us demonstrate this progress very clearly to the public. This year especially, the high profile breeds, almost without exception, could be proud to be represented in the group rings by dogs showing improvement in type, movement and health and this was most certainly noticed. As we progress through 2014 several ongoing initiatives will continue our defence of the reputation of the Kennel Club registered pedigree dog. Some examples include: Breed Watch as an early warning of emerging health problems associated with conformation; the further engagement of show judges in the early detection of worrying signs of exaggerated conformation or emerging breed trends indicative of health concerns; the refinement of the Assured Breeder Scheme to embrace the benefits of UKAS accreditation, including an assessment for every ABS breeder (something called for by the majority of critics of the ABS); the ongoing investment in the KC Genetics Centre at the AHT (thus continuing the drive for solutions for inherited diseases and cancer); the Puppy Socialisation Plan, Mate Select and MyKC to engage the dog breeders and owners in health and welfare; and a vibrant, active Breed Rescue community to pick up the pieces when a dog needs help. These represent a comprehensive Kennel Club campaign to demonstrate a commitment to deliver good health and welfare for all dogs.

As we progress through 2014 several ongoing initiatives will continue our defence of the reputation of the Kennel Club registered pedigree dog.

In March, I commented upon the selection of judges and will follow up this thread with a comment on dog shows. The wide interest in the working group looking at dog shows has been encouraging. The small but steady decline in entries at Championship Shows over the past few years is showing signs of being reversed as we start the 2014 calendar, nevertheless, it is sensible to consider what might be done to secure the future of our cherished General and Group Championship Shows. We also must look at the future for the Open Show too, for these competitions have long been the training ground for new judges and provide opportunities to give a new young dog show ring experience without the need to expose a puppy to a long day at a Championship Show. The local Open Show is also a source of competition and pleasure for many dog owners and we should not lose sight of this.

There have been many ‘quick fixes’ suggested but there is much to be said for the view that, although there may be some beneficial changes that can be made quickly, these are unlikely to produce the fundamental changes that justify a root and branch review of the show scene to produce longer term responses to cater for our modern society. Unsurprisingly therefore, the working group is looking for short, medium and long term strategies to ensure that UK dog shows continue to offer good competition and entertainment well into the future.

It is not a simple challenge we have set the working group and any alterations to the administration of dog shows will need to reflect changes in how we train and select judges and how the allocation of challenge certificates is determined. The latter point is part of the review but the matter of judges and their training and selection will need to engage the views of the Judges Sub-committee and the KC Educational Trust.

Question Times are the ideal forum for ALL lovers of dogs whether pet owners/ trainers/ exhibitors/ breeders/working dog lovers - in fact EVERYONE who owns and enjoys the company of their dogs!

These sessions provide a great opportunity for you to question and involve yourself with the Kennel Club. The sessions start promptly at 7pm with arrival suggested between 6.15 to 6.30 with refreshments.

The panel regularly consists of:
- Professor Steve Dean ................................................Chairman
- Mike Townsend ................................................Vice Chairman
- Rose Smart ...........................................................Chief Executive
- Caroline Kisko ....................................................Kennel Club Secretary and Communications Director
- Kathryn Symns ..................................................Canine Activities Executive
- Bill Lambert......................................................Health and Breeder Services Manager

It is also an ideal opportunity to meet the senior management of the Kennel Club and to understand when and why decisions are made – and have the opportunity to influence these decisions.

The more questions and ideas the panel returns with to London – the more involved you will become.

If you’d like to come, please email susan.sampson@thekennelclub.org.uk who will ensure that a place is reserved for you.

If you wish to table a question in advance (which ensures that time is allowed) – please also email susan.sampson@thekennelclub.org.uk

Question Times have been well attended in 2013 and we hope that 2014 proves to be another successful year for these forums. Your opinions and questioning will ensure that we work together into the future. WE LOOK FORWARD TO SEEING YOU.
