New Year Book design

The Kennel Club launches a refreshed Year Book, designed for clarity, accessibility and ease of use

The Kennel Club has announced an updated, streamlined Year Book, designed to be more practical, accessible, and user-friendly. Launching in July 2025, it will retain all essential information while being easier to navigate.

The Year Book has grown increasingly complex over time, leading to challenges in usability. In response, The Kennel Club is streamlining its content to facilitate quicker updates and eliminate duplication, while reducing costs and environmental impact.

Key changes:

- The first half of the Year Book will continue in print, including the Directory of Members and Associates.
- The second half will move to digital-first, with up-to-date information on clubs and societies, as well as the regulations governing canine activities available online. The activity regulations also remain available as:

- Printed booklets by activity - provided free to event organisers and available for purchase through The Kennel Club's online shop.
- Free PDFs - downloadable from The Kennel Club's website.

Jannine Edgar, Chief Executive at The Kennel Club, emphasised the importance of member feedback in shaping this update:

"Through surveys and consultations, we've carefully considered feedback. The slimline Year Book ensures timelier, more relevant information for those who rely on it. The benefits include a more streamlined and focused Year Book, quicker access to essential information, a gradual shift to digital, and less unnecessary content to navigate, creating a more efficient and accessible experience overall."

Preview examples of the new format were showcased at The Kennel Club at Clarges Street, Windsor Championship Dog Show, and the Annual General Meeting.

The Kennel Club urges awareness of new Northern Ireland pet travel provisions

The Kennel Club is urging dog owners to check the latest post-Brexit pet travel rules ahead of travelling with their dog, to ensure they are adhering to the current guidelines. The recommendation follows the implementation of new rules for travelling from Great Britain to Northern Ireland with dogs, which in turn have coincided with the recent announcement that pet passports are set to return for Great Britain based dog owners.

Following the end of the Brexit transition period in January 2021, new rules regarding pet travel between Great Britain, Northern Ireland and the EU were introduced, which had a significant impact on those who travel between those nations with their dogs. Since then, various updates and announcements have been made in relation to these rules.

As of 4 June 2025, those who live in Great Britain will need to obtain a Northern Ireland pet travel document (PTD) to travel to Northern Ireland with their dog, this includes assistance dogs. The new Northern Ireland PTD is free and lasts as long as you retain ownership of your dog, with the only requirement that your dog is microchipped.

For those who live in Northern Ireland, the only requirement is to ensure your dog is microchipped, and there is no need to obtain a Northern Ireland PTD to travel in either direction.

Different rules apply for commercial travel, please visit gov.uk/taking-your-pet-abroad.

gov.uk/taking-your-pet-abroad/travelling-to-northern-ireland for further details.

For those travelling between Great Britain and the EU, while it was recently announced that pet passports will return for dog, cat and ferret owners, no date has currently been set for when this will come into effect, so owners should be aware that Animal Health Certificates will continue to be in force for the time being.

The new Northern Ireland PTD is free and lasts as long as you retain ownership of your dog

Dr Ed Hayes, Head of Public Affairs at The Kennel Club commented: "We have continued to push for changes to ease the process of travelling with dogs, between both Great Britain and Northern Ireland, as well as to and from the EU, so we are really pleased to see the Government making progress in reducing the post-Brexit red tape to travel with their dogs."

"The new Northern Ireland pet travel document for taking a dog from Great Britain into Northern Ireland is a significant improvement on the initially agreed post-Brexit requirement to obtain an expensive Animal Health Certificate for each journey to Northern Ireland."

"However, dog owners should be aware that there are still complexities within the rules to be aware of, and a date has yet to be set for when pet passports will return, so they should carefully check the rules in force before travel."

Further information can be found by visiting thekennelclub.org.uk/Brexit and gov.uk/taking-your-pet-abroad.

Icelandic Sheepdog Interim Standard published

The Kennel Club Interim Breed Standard for the Icelandic Sheepdog (Imp) will be published on 1 July 2025. The breed will therefore be eligible for exhibition in Imported Breed Register classes from this date. The standard will be available on the Kennel Club website.

The standard is the first to be published which contains an additional preliminary clause giving a brief historical summary of the breed, as well as a sub-heading in the general appearance clause to specify important proportions.

These sections are also being introduced to the Jack Russell Terrier breed standard shortly and will generally be included when new standards are published, when existing standards are reviewed following the allocation of championship status, or when a major review of a standard is undertaken.

This important guidance at the beginning of the standard will help to inform judges and breeders about the breed. The characteristics clause is to be omitted from new breed standards and removed from existing standards when such reviews are conducted.

The Kennel Club is currently in consultation with breed clubs representing the Kooikerhondje and Lagotto Romagnolo regarding their respective standards as these breeds were allocated championship status at the same time as the Jack Russell Terrier.

The Icelandic Sheepdog (Imp) has been classified in the Pastoral Group on the Imported Breed Register since April 2025.

Summer months linked to rise in missing pets

UK's largest lost and found pet database issues summer warning and urges owners to check their details this National Microchipping Month

Pets are most likely to go missing during summer, Petlog, one of the UK's largest lost and found pet databases has revealed, and urges owner caution as National Microchipping Month begins.

Three years' worth of missing pet data shows a 63% increase in pets being reported as missing or stolen during June, July and August, compared to the winter months of December, January and February. Last year alone, Petlog, which is run by not-for-profit organisation The Kennel Club, saw 79% more pets reported as lost or stolen during the summer months compared to winter. 2024 saw around 1,600 dogs and 13,000 cats reported as missing or stolen, as well as 12 tortoises, eight ferrets and five horses.

Whilst many of these pets will have been reunited and returned home due to their microchip, Petlog is urging owners to check that their details are up to date with their database and to be aware of additional security considerations during the summer. The organisation, which reunites lost and found pets and is behind National Microchipping Month, hopes to raise awareness of the importance of this throughout June and keep more of the UK's much-loved pets safe.

"Summer often sees changes to routines, children at home for the holidays, owners going away and generally more time spent outdoors exploring new places with our pets," comments Helen Fox, Petlog spokesperson.

"With this, it's crucial that owners don't forget about their much-loved pet. Ensuring they are microchipped and registered with a 24/7 reunification database like Petlog is an easy but essential measure that can make all the difference and offers vital peace of mind.

"We want to get more pets microchipped and more owners checking their details are up to date this National Microchipping Month, so if the worst were to happen, you have the best chance of being reunited with your furry family member."

A microchip is the size of a grain of rice which is inserted under the skin at the back of an animal's neck. It permanently identifies pets and connects them with an owner's contact details, which are held on a database like Petlog, enabling vets, local authorities and animal charities to scan the chip, match it to the owner's details and reunite lost and found pets if the worst happens.

Of course, microchipping can only work effectively if an owner's contact details are up to date with a database.

Bailey, an 18-year-old cat from Stirling, was reunited with his family over two years after he went missing, thanks to his microchip and up-to-date details registered with Petlog.

Bailey didn't return home one evening after going out with his brother. Despite searching the area, putting up posters, and his owner alerting Petlog, there was no sign of him.

More than two years later, someone locally posted a photo of a cat living under their garden decking, and Bailey's owner, Heather McLachlan, immediately recognised him.

A visit to the vet then confirmed his identity through his microchip, which was registered with Petlog, providing a sense of relief for Heather and her family, who had almost given up hope: "The vet confirmed through his chip that it was him, which was such a massive relief," Heather said.

"We never thought this would happen, especially at his age, but he is home, the wanderer returns!"

Currently, it's a legal requirement for dogs to be microchipped in England, Northern Ireland, Wales and Scotland. It's also compulsory for pet cats in England to be microchipped, with an owner's up-to-date contact details recorded on a Defra-approved microchipping database. There's currently no legal requirement to microchip other pets, but experts like Petlog strongly advise it.

Alongside microchipping, Petlog is advising owners to make sure their pet is secure this summer. Helen added: "Prevention is of course the most effective approach - pet owners should ensure that their gardens and homes are secure, and remain vigilant of their pet's whereabouts, especially when children or visitors are present, routines change or when spending time away from home.

"If you are traveling abroad, it is advisable to update your holiday details on your pet's microchip record ahead of time. Petlog, as a member of the European Pet Network, can assist in reuniting owners and pets who go missing while abroad."

For further expert advice about keeping your pet safe this National Microchipping Month, or for information about microchipping and how to register with Petlog, visit petlog.org.uk/nationalmicrochippingmonth.

Arise, the Jack Russell: Royal favourite surges in popularity

As Duke and Duchess of Cambridge also welcome a litter of one of Britain's favourite breeds

The Jack Russell Terrier, favourite of Queen Camilla, has seen a majestic start to 2025, according to statistics released last month by The Kennel Club.

Data from the dog registration body shows that the breed has enjoyed a significant surge in numbers for the first quarter of the year, with a 75% increase in puppy registrations, compared to the same period in 2024.

Reminiscent to the 'royal' Corgi popularity which often ebbed and flowed in line with the late Queen Elizabeth's ownership of the breed, the Jack Russell Terrier has experienced a boom in popularity in recent years. The breed's numbers increased 14% between 2021 and 2022, coinciding with HRH King Charles coming to the throne and, earlier this year, Queen Camilla announced another Jack Russell arrival to the royal household, Moley, joining Bluebell who has been by her side since 2011.

Another beloved British breed, the Cocker Spaniel, also looks set to have secured its place in the hearts of both the nation, and the Royal Family, after becoming the second most popular breed, according to Kennel Club figures, in 2024. The breed has continued to hold its second place spot in the first quarter of 2025, while the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge's Cocker Spaniel, Orla, is reported to have recently welcomed a quartet of Cocker Spaniel puppies.

The Jack Russell Terrier has experienced a boom in popularity in recent years

The breed has become a steadfast family favourite in the UK, remaining in the top ten most popular breeds throughout the last century.

It was the nation's top breed between 1935-1953, and, since 2016, has been the third most popular breed, recording its highest ever figures in 2021. In 2024, it moved up into second place, and is continuing to close the gap behind the nation's 'top dog', the Labrador Retriever.

Charlotte McNamara, spokesperson for The Kennel Club said: "The Jack Russell

Terrier and the Cocker Spaniel are iconic British breeds, and make wonderful companions, so it's no wonder they have the royal seal of approval.

"Both breeds have friendly and lively personalities, making them well-suited to the busy and active lives of royalty where they are certain to meet lots of new people. It's of course vital that any would-be owner spends a lot of time researching which dog best suits their lifestyle, and making sure they can take of their various needs. We are lucky to have such a rich diversity of different types of dogs in the UK, so we urge the public to thoroughly research, in order to find their perfect match."

Barbet allocated to Gundog sub-group

The Kennel Club Board has approved the decision to include the Barbet in the Spaniel sub-group, meaning the breed can compete in Any Variety Spaniel [Excluding Spaniel (Cocker)] field trials and gundog working tests.

This decision was taken following an assessment at the Packington Estate, near Coventry in September 2024, during which dogs from the breed proved their ability to use the wind to hunt and quarter naturally, retrieve dummies, and act responsively to commands given by voice or whistle.

The assessors were of the view that the most suitable sub-group was the Spaniel sub-group as neither the Hunt, Point, Retrieve (HPR) or Retriever groups were considered appropriate. The breed has been allocated to this subgroup for a three-year period after which the position will be reviewed.

The Barbet is a French retriever and water dog whose origins can be traced back to at least the 1700s. Intelligent and loyal, traditionally the Barbet was used to flush and retrieve waterfowl in the marshes and lakes of France, and it is thought that the breed was used in the development of other breeds like the Poodle and the Curly Coated Retriever.

The Kennel Club Board noted that in previous years two other import breeds - the Lagotto Romagnolo and the Spanish Water Dog - had been added to the Spaniel sub-group and it was agreed that the Barbet would be a competitive addition when entering Any Variety Spaniel except for Spaniel [Cocker] and Spaniel [English Springer] trials, also referred to as the 'Minor Breeds Spaniel' field trials.

The classification will take place with immediate effect and Barbets will be eligible to compete in working tests and field trials in the 2025/26 season.

Further information about the allocation of the Barbet can be obtained by emailing gundogs@thekennelclub.org.uk.

The classification will take place with immediate effect

Hungarian Mudi granted recognition by The Kennel Club

The Hungarian Mudi has been recognised by The Kennel Club with effect from 1 July 2025. The breed will be classified in the Pastoral Group on the Imported Breed Register. Until such time as a Kennel Club interim breed standard has been published, the Hungarian Mudi is not eligible to compete at Kennel Club licensed breed shows.

The Hungarian Mudi is a rare Hungarian herding breed with a rich history. Though references to Mudi-like dogs date back to the 18th century, it wasn't until 1936 that the breed was formally identified and is known for its distinctive traits: a curly coat, erect ears, and exceptional intelligence.

Dorit Powell from The Hungarian Mudi Club in the United Kingdom

said: "The Mudi is razor-sharp, thinks independently, and is an affectionate, fiercely loyal family member. They are suitable for most types of living, as long as they are provided with a job or similar mental and physical stimulation and their human companions can accept their breed-characteristic vocal and herding behaviour.

"Mudis need little grooming. Their fur sheds naturally and only needs to be brushed to assist shedding or remove foreign objects or the occasional knot as the action also flattens the coat. Most Mudis love water and will happily splash and swim, which not only cleans the coat but also restores its characteristically lush curls and waves.

"Prospective and new owners should be aware that this mid-size breed is still primitive. Mudis love to please and work best with variation, patience, positive reinforcement and a strong bond with their handler. They should research not only the breed but also existing lines and consult with breeders to ensure they obtain a dog suitable for their lifestyle and intentions."

The Kennel Club now recognises 225 breeds of pedigree dog. The last breed to be recognised was the Icelandic Sheepdog in April 2025.

Unique photographic technique on show at new exhibition

The Kennel Club Art Gallery is proud to unveil its latest upcoming capsule exhibition, Salty Dogs, a vibrant photographic showcase of cyanotype images by photographer and artist, Nick Gardner.

A former BBC presenter and broadcast journalist, Nick, from East Sheen, south-west London, has a lifelong love of dogs and they have been the subject of his photography for over a decade, reflecting their role as dignified companions, constant observers and emotional supporters.

Having graduated with a First Class Honours degree in BA (Hons) Fine Art Photography in 2024, Nick now concentrates on alternative photographic processes, creating cyanotypes by hand, using light and classic chemistry.

Cyanotype is a photographic printing technique that produces a distinctive blue-tinted (also known as cyan) image through a contact print method, and allows for the creation of one-of-a-kind artworks, where each print is inherently different due to the variables of exposure and the natural conditions during processing.

The Salty Dogs capsule exhibition will showcase a curated selection of various breeds, portrayed via this unique and rare photographic process.

Nick commented: "What makes cyanotype special to me is how unpredictable and hands-on it is – there's no 'undo' or 'reset' button. You never quite know how a print will turn out, just like you can't fully predict a dog's expression.

That honesty is what makes both the process and the subject so rewarding.

"In a time when almost everything can be edited, filtered or AI-enhanced, we risk losing the imperfections that gives art its character.

Each cyanotype I make is one of a kind – just like the dogs I photograph."

Heidi Hudson, Curator of Photographic Collections at The Kennel Club, added: "Salty Dogs truly is not your average dog photographic portraits. Nick's one-of-a-kind photography harks back to the days of early 1840s photography pioneers Anna Atkins, William Henry Fox Talbot, and Sir John F. W. Herschel.

New DNA testing scheme for the Giant Schnauzer

The Kennel Club has approved a new official DNA testing scheme for hyperuricosuria (HUU) in the Giant Schnauzer.

In affected dogs, uric acid does not dissolve easily in urine and accumulates, with the excessive amount of uric acid forming crystals which lead to urinary calculi (stones). In some cases the stones may require surgery to be removed if they cause blockage and can cause symptoms such as straining to urinate, vomiting, loss of appetite, and weakness, due to toxins building up in the body. The changes in the urine are generally present from birth, however it usually takes some time for crystals to form and combine into stones that cause problems, most often between three and six years of age.

The disease is believed to be an autosomal-recessive condition. This means that dogs that inherit two copies of the gene mutation (one from its mother and one from its father) will have an increased risk of developing the condition.

Tested dogs will be recorded on The Kennel Club systems as either:

CLEAR

The dog does not have any copies of the abnormal gene associated with the disease. The dog is highly unlikely to be clinically affected and will only pass on a normal copy of the gene to a puppy.

CARRIER

The dog has one copy of the normal gene and one copy of the abnormal gene associated with the disease. The dog is highly unlikely to be clinically affected, but may pass one copy of the normal gene, or one copy of the abnormal gene on to a puppy.

AFFECTED

The dog has two copies of the abnormal gene associated with the disease. The dog will likely be clinically affected by the disorder and will pass one copy of the abnormal gene on to any potential offspring.

Test results will be added to the dog's registration details which will trigger the publication of the result in the next available Breed Records Supplement and also on the Health Test Results Finder on The Kennel Club website.

Results for dogs already tested can also be recorded, but owners will need to submit copies of the DNA certificates themselves. DNA test certificates should be scanned and emailed to health.results@thekennelclub.org.uk.

At this time, the tests will be listed under the Health Standard's Best Practice category for the two breeds, with a grace-period of six months to allow owners to reach Best Practice before the guidelines are formally introduced for Find a Puppy.

The Kennel Club's Health Standard consolidates all relevant health tests for a breed in one place, providing clear guidance on which tests to undertake before breeding and how to do so. The Good Practice category highlights the most critical tests as a starting point, while all breeders are encouraged to aim for the Best Practice level by completing all recommended tests. Assignment of a test to Good/Best Practice categories is fluid, and depends on a number of factors, including the relevance of the test to the breed, the prevalence of the disease and how trends in prevalence have changed overtime.

There is more information available about the Health Standard and how to reach Best Practice testing and further details about DNA testing available via a webinar, delivered by The Kennel Club's geneticist, Dr Joanna Iliska: The Science of DNA Testing.

Owners are reminded that:

- From August 2018, it is mandatory that the dog's microchip (or tattoo) is recorded along with either the dog's registered name or registered number on any DNA certificates. Any test results issued after that date that do not carry these identifying features will not be accepted.

- The Kennel Club has a set of criteria that we request DNA testing laboratories to meet to enable us to record their results, helping to maintain and protect the integrity of results that appear on a dog's records. We have updated the list of laboratories that we accept results from and strongly advise that customers ensure their chosen laboratory is included on our revised list if they wish The Kennel Club to record and publish the results. Results from laboratories not included on this list will not be recorded.

To find out which laboratories The Kennel Club is able to record results from, and which laboratories will send results directly to The Kennel Club, please refer to our website. To find out which DNA tests are relevant to your breed, visit thekennelclub.org.uk/breeds.

The Kennel Club constantly reviews DNA testing schemes in conjunction with breed clubs to ensure that breeders are supported with resources which help them to make responsible breeding decisions. The Kennel Club works alongside breed clubs and breed health coordinators in a collaborative effort to improve the health of pedigree dogs and is happy to consider a club's request to add a new DNA test to its lists. A formal request from the breed's health coordinator or a majority request from the breed clubs is normally required to do this.

The Kennel Club takes insights from its health data and feeds them into its Breed Health and Conservation plans, so that it can work with breeders to give information and guidance about how to ensure the future health of pedigree breeds. These plans, which enable The Kennel Club to track progress and make meaningful changes to breed health, have been developed as a result of reviewing more than 4,000 research papers, making the project the most comprehensive review of pedigree health data anywhere in the world. ## New DNA testing scheme for the Russian Black Terrier

The Kennel Club has approved a new official DNA testing scheme for progressive retinal atrophy (prcd-PRA) in the Russian Black Terrier.

PRA causes cells in the retina at the back of the eye to degenerate and die, even though the cells may have developed normally early in life. Owners of affected dogs first notice that their dog becomes night blind, but this eventually progresses to total blindness. The age of onset of first signs varies from breed to breed, however, in all cases puppies are born with perfect vision and their sight begins to degenerate later in life.

The disease is believed to be an autosomal-recessive condition. This means that dogs that inherit two copies of the gene mutation (one from its mother and one from its father) will have an increased risk of developing the condition.
